Japanese Invasion Plans For Australia Are Being Crippled

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 19. — Bolstered by United States Army and Navy units, the defenders of Australia today are employing smashing offensive tactics with crippling effect upon Japanese invasion spearheads in that area.

For the first time in the Pacific conflict, the Nipponese are meeting the type of resistance that eventually may force the enemy to fall back to less exposed bases.

Ever since the fall of Java, the invaders have been pounding at strategic islands north of Australia, and while landings have been affected at several points, the Japs are paying dearly for their gains.

No Huge Armadas Risked

Effective aerial reconnaissance by aircraft ready to "bomb on sight" any Japanese vessel undoubtedly is responsible for the fact that the Nipponese have not risked huge invasion armadas in Australian waters.

Unlike tactics used in the successful conquest of parts of the Philippines, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, the Japanese are employing smaller invasion units to reinforce and expand present invasion bases like those on northern New Guinea.

This strategy is in direct contrast

Plan New Move To Halt Auto Tire Thefts

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 19—In a move to combat tire thefts, state motor police commissioner Lynn G. Adams today urged a law making it mandatory for automobile inspection station to report owners of tires without serial numbers.

"Under the present laws," he said, "we cannot operate within community boundaries in an effort to catch tire thieves. We can only cooperate with local authorities to apprehend the crooks if the police ask our intervention, although we can pick up persons suspected of possessing stolen goods.

"Tire thefts have not increased measurably so far," Adams pointed out, "but as the shortage of used tires becomes worse we expect a big jump.

"Naturally, we want to protect motorists against 'hot tires,' which

Brazil Moves To Break Axis Ring In Nation

(International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 19.—The Brazilian government today smashed forward with its attempt to break up a well-organized Axis ring in this country by arresting three prominent Germans in the state of Paraiba, all of whom allegedly confessed Nazi activities.

A letter signed by Hans Albrecht, believed to be a German group leader, instructing Pruntzek to intensify his espionage activities, also was seized.

An unidentified German photographer and a traveling Nazi named Eerner Gunter who gave free lessons in German were arrested with Pruntzek.

New Registration Being Planned

Order Soon For Registration Of Youths 18-19 And Men From 45 To 64

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 19—In another step toward complete mobilization of America's manpower, national draft officials today planned to issue an order soon calling for registration of the nation's 18 and 19-year-old youths and men from 45 to 64, inclusive, during the last week of April.

At the same time it was learned that arrangements are being made to rush legislation through congress to provide military training for the 18 and 19 year olds so that they can be immediately inducted into the army when they reach their 20th birthday.

All men 18 to 64 inclusive are covered under the draft act. Men from 21 to 34, inclusive, and youths 20, and men from 34 to 44 inclusive, already have been registered. The third draft lottery covering the 9,000,000 men 20 years old and men from 34 to 44 was held Tuesday night.

In launching it, Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, indicated that workers would be conscripted for war industries. He said flatly that the job of keeping men at work turning out planes and ships and tanks and guns would be given preference even over furnishing men for military services.

Legislature May Quit In Two Weeks

Adjournment Will Be Final

Leaders Assert That Continuous Session Is Not Likely To Be Arranged

TWENTY BILLS TO BE ACTED UPON

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 19—Final adjournment of the special session of the legislature today was tenatively set for the week after next by House and Senate leaders.

Senate Republican leader James A. Geltz, of Allegheny, said a caucus of majority members had voted to attempt to clean up the session's work "within two weeks" and adjourn sine die. House majority leader Leo A. Achterman, of Monroe, said that was the house plan also.

Both leaders appeared confident that the legislature could enact all necessary legislation by April 4, at the latest, and then adjourn finally rather than remain in continuous session, subject to recall by legislative leaders.

Achterman declared, however, that should it not prove feasible to adjourn sine die due to the war, he favored a straightaway recess, with the legislature returning from time to time whenever it had business to transact. He was opposed, he stressed, to delegating to a committee or the state defense council, as Gov. Arthur H. James has requested, or any other group the power to suspend or amend laws found to be incompatible with the war's prosecution. The legislature alone should deal with that problem, he emphasized.

To Pass 20 Bills

Achterman has set as the House's goal for the next two weeks the enactment of approximately 20 bills which suspend for the duration of the war provisions of existing laws, plus the approval of certain measures already on the calendar. Ten of the 20 bills have been given first reading and could be passed by the house by next Tuesday, while the remaining measures will be introduced next week. Senate confirmation would still be required.

Among the bills now on the legislative calendars, revision of the unemployment compensation law looms as the biggest problem. The senate is prepared to approve on Monday, when the two houses reconvene after their customary midweek recess, a Republican measure increasing jobless benefits, while the house has already passed a still more liberal measure. Attempts will be made to compromise the differences in the two bills.

Parole Law

The Governor's request for a one-year postponement of the new parole law, embodied in a bill approved Tuesday by the Senate, stands very little chance of passage in the House, said Achterman. "I can see little sentiment for it among House members," said the Democratic leader. If the House fails to act on the measure, or votes it down, the law will automaticlly become effective next June 1.

Before adjourning, the legislature is expected to enact legislation reducing from 50 to 40 miles an hour the speed limit on state highways in accord with a request by President Roosevelt. The purpose is to conserve rubber tires. An administration bill has been introduced by Sen. Thomas B. Wilson, (R) McKean.

The House gave its unanimous approval to a moratorium measure designed to protect persons whose businesses are adversely affected by priorities or federal rationing and forwarded it to the senate for concurrence. Jointly sponsored by Reps. Don Wilkinson (R) Luzerne and Albert S. Readinger (D) Berks, the measure authorizes county courts to halt property tax sales resulting from the effects of the war.

The Mallery bill establishing penalties of $5,000 and 10 years imprisonment for theft of rationed articles is ready for Senate passage.

to that employed elsewhere, when convoys varying from 50 to 100 ships of all types overwhelmed defenders and crushed resistance in record time.

Inkling Of What's To Come

An inkling of what the Japanese are up against in Australia was given by the navy when it disclosed that American and Australian island based forces mostly planes, recently sunk and damaged 23 Nipponese vessels, including 12 warships.

The losses helped to compensate for destruction of 12 United Nations warships during the battle of Java. In actions around Australia, Jap losses included two heavy and one light cruiser, five transports, one gunboat, one destroyer and one minesweeper sunk or probably sunk.

In addition, six other warships were damaged, including two destroyers which were listed as "possibly sunk." Among the ships damaged was an aircraft tender.

Not satisfied with that score, the United Nations pilots bombed land installations and runways at Jap held bases at Salamaua and Lae, in New Guinea.

Cannot Risk Ships

Military experts point out that even Japan, with all its naval forces concentrated in the Pacific, cannot continue to risk its surface units indefinitely in the face of such heavy losses.

Although the war department has been silent officially regarding activity of its forces in Australia, United States Army air units are said to be continuing their raids against the Japs in that area.

Recently, American flying fortress bombers sunk or damaged seven Jap ships north of Australia, and rained tons of bombs on the same points mentioned in the navy announcement.

With the United States pouring arms into Australia, more and more offensive action is expected in that area.

Recent appointment fo Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacafic lent support to the belief that the United States not only intends to help hold Australia, but will use it as a vital stepping stone for counter-attack.

PLAN NEW MOVE TO HALT TIRE THEFTS

may be defective, as well as to be able to reduce tire thefts. I believe that if the inspection station operators were required to file names of owners possessing tires with the serial numbers effaced, the market for stolen tires would disappear."

Motor Police On Guard

Adams said that the 1400 State motor policemen were constantly on the watch for persons transporting "hot" tires, although no great increase in the number of thefts has yet been reported.

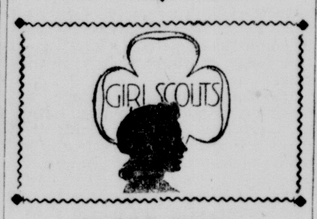

"I believe that the legislators can enact a law to carry out such a program under the point in the special session call providing for suspension or modification of certain existing laws during the war," Adams declared

"It is my opinion that if such a law were enacted for the duration, the first legislature meeting after the war would immediately re-enact the bill as a deterrent to peacetime tire thefts."

Arams explained that the state's 8000 inspection stations were charged under the law to determine that the 2,500,000 automobiles in Pennsylvania had safe tires, besides checking mechanical operations. The garage-owners would be required to check the serial number on each tire before issuing an inspection certificate.

Adams asserted that although motorists had been requested by various agencies to note tire numbers, efforts of police to apprehend tire thieves were balked by the fact that numbers frequently were removed from the tire sidewall with an electric buffer or file.

"There is no doubt," he concluded, "that enactment of a hot tire bill would serve both the motorists and the police, and reduce the number of thefts because car owners would be reluctant to buy tires without serial numbers."

tinual erection of new homes results in the street paving being torn up regularly. Several new homes are in course of construction on both streets at the present time.

A considerable number of garages around the city seem to be showing the result of the high winds of the week. Sections of roofing have been blown off.

New street lights in the South Side area are quite striking. They are of a new type and were recently erected.

News Briefs From City Hall

Mayor Charles B. Mayne today informed council that some time ago the city had bought a car for police. It was supposed to be a speed maniac chaser. The city now has another new car "on order." "I'm going through the records and find how many persons have been arrested for speeding since we got that new car," he said. He intimated that "something is going to happen" if action isn't forthcoming on speeders.

George Hawk and J. C. Shepp today were named city firemen for temporary periods. The recommendation was made by Safety Director D. O. Davies.

P. & L. E. Railroad and the Pennsylvania Engineering Works have signed releases, as has the Pennsylvania Power Company, for any damages resulting from the widening (now proposed) of South Jefferson street between the Neshannock Creek and Moravia street. The P. R. R. refused to sign. Solicitor R. M. White said the latter railroad had an easement and some question as to damages might arise if damages were sustained.

Negotiations are under way whereby the city hopes to have the state pave Route 422 by-pass which would run from Butler avenue via Taylor, New street and South Croton avenue to South Jefferson street. The width of the by-pass would be 22 feet. However, the city would erect curbs and furnish crushed stones for the South Croton avenue strip if it were widened to 42 feet.

Members of New Castle Chapter No. 1, Order of the Builders, Advisory Council Members and Honorary Members, are requested to meet at 7:15 P. M., Thursday evening, March 19, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. From this point we will proceed to the Leyde Funeral Home, to pay a tribute of respect and brotherhood to the memory of our departed brother, Rex Patch, Jr.

CONSERVING TIRES AND LIVES

BECAUSE it is to the advantage of every car owner to conserve his tires, the proposed 40 miles an hour speed limit should be more easily enforced than previous restrictions.

Pennsylvania's motor vehicle code makes 50 miles the legal maximum. But the manner in which motorists in this and other states have violated speed regulations is written in the accident records, showing thousands killed because of drivers' insistence on getting from place to place in a hurry.

Enforcement of the lower limit would be even more difficult than the 50-mile law, were it not for the rubber crisis. Motorists with any sense at all know that tires wear more quickly when cars are driven at excessive speed, and that if they operate under 40 miles an hour they will be saving their tires for more mileage.

It won't occur to some drivers that slowing down also prevents accidents. But if tire-saving also saves lives it is all to the good.

BIG JOB FOR MacARTHUR

In taking command of American forces in Australia Gen. Douglas MacArthur, hero of Bataan, undertakes the greatest task of his military career. Not only is General MacArthur in Australia to prevent the Japs from seizing that continent—he is there to organize Allied counter-strokes against the Nipponese that are expected to develop into a great counter-offensive.

Defeat for the United Nations in Australia now is unthinkable, for American men, planes, tanks, guns and ships will flow into that theater of war in an ever-growing stream until ways are found and the means are at hand to drive the invader back to Japanese soil.

In all that great area east of India, west of Hawaii and north of Australia, Japan now dominates the sea. She has conquered an empire greater in extent than all the Axis conquests in Europe, comparable in the richness of its resources to those of the British Empire itself. British, Dutch and American sea power in the Far East has been all but wiped out.

Hence it is clear that if Australia is to be defended, that defense must rest upon the land and air forces of Australia itself, plus strong reinforcement of both troops and planes from the United States. Inasmuch as Australian man power and its air force are limited, the main burden of successful defense rests upon the United States, with all that this means in maintaining and protecting lines of communication through hostile waters across half the world.

It is a task of herculean proportions that confronts General MacArthur. But he is the one man in the American military forces fitted for the job, and the tools of war with which to contest the issue will be his in immeasurably larger abundance than was the case in Bataan, where he produced miracles of generalship.

As Japan pursues her large-scale conquest of New Guinea, it appears certain that Australia will be the next victim of Japanese attack. Whether that proves correct or whether India will be Japan's next objective, the problem of the United States in maintaining communications with Australia is one of the gravest that General MacArthur faces. Adequate American air power can keep the Australian coast open to Allied shipping, and it is freely predicted that this will be provided.

But distance also makes provision of adequate shipping facilities between the United States and Australia difficult. These difficulties are no less true of communications with New Zealand.

America's first great problem of protecting transoceanic communications arose in the Atlantic while the United States was still a nominal neutral. The urgent need of maintaining an uninterrupted flow of lend-lease supplies to Great Britain was responsible for occupation of Iceland. Establishment of an American naval patrol was the nation's neutral contribution toward breaking the German submarine blockade of Britain. That arrangement worked well, even if it meant a division of the American fleet before Pearl Harbor.

But the North Atlantic is a narrow ocean compared with the scale of distance between American ports and the Southwestern Pacific. The normal war-time route between New York and Britain, for example, is less than 3,500, the time about two weeks. From San Francisco to Melbourne, Australia, the distance is 8,900 miles, the time forty days.

The longest North Atlantic route is from New York to Archangel, Russia, 5,100 miles, the time about three weeks. The longest route to the Asiatic theater of war is from New York to Calcutta, 14,350 miles, the time sixty-five days. These times, of course, assume an uninterrupted passage.

When the United States—via Iceland—went to the aid of beleagured Britain, few Americans could have imagined that the time was not distant when this nation would find it necessary to go to the aid of beleagured Australia. Few were there to imagine that where the Germans failed to invade Britain, a small island twenty miles from the European coast, the Japs could menace Australia, a continent, as far from Japan as the width of the Atlantic.

But the peril that faces Australia calls for American aid to be given unstintedly and with alacrity. Preparations for application of the scorched earth technique to Australia suggests how desperate is her situation. The inferior air strength which doomed Hongkong, Singapore and the Dutch East Indies must be augmented by American planes and flying personnel sufficient to meet the threat of anything the Japs can put in the air over Australia.

The need for American supplies and men is crucial, for in sending General MacArthur to Australia Great Britain and this country have served notice upon Japan that they hope to convert this great continent into a base for ultimate Allied counter-attacks on Japan's conquered territories.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, hero of Bataan where he proved his mastery of the art of defense, now has been offered the opportunity for which all military men hope—the opportunity to develop defensive technique into an offensive that will defeat the enemy and win the war.

It is said there will soon be a ban on rubber heels. There are other varieties of heels we could do without, too.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

QUARRELS BRED BY DISCOURTESY

I suppose we should be too good for this world if our chivalry and good sportsmanship applied to all occasions. If each married couple were as considerate toward each other as they were in their earlier sweetheart days, marital quarrels and divorces would be few.

Men and women of cultivation and good taste, when engaged in sports or games, are noted for their extreme deference toward one another. The attitude of "after you" prevails. The victor does not gloat over his victories nor show delight in the failure of the loser.

Neither does the loser charge the victor with unfairness. The slightest step outside the bounds of accepted rules of the game or beyond conventional behavior is quickly followed by, "I'm sorry," or "My mistake," or "Please pardon me."

When you and I reflect upon the moments when we were a party to a home misunderstanding, with a wife or with a husband, or with a child, we readily see that sportsmanship had relaxed. At such moments it is not the spirit of "you first" or "after you" that prevails. There is no consideration of others.

Public Good Manners

But at golf or bridge it is not so hard to be chivalrous. Rather it is hard not to be. The fear of disapproval is very powerful. A number of others are standing by to check up on us, and our social status is at stake. When one is with one's wife, or one's hubsand, or one's child the situation is vastly different. Strong restraining influences are not there to help. To prove onself a real sportsman then calls for much self-control.

Self-restraint and habits of holding one's conduct strictly to ideals is none the less worth striving for.

Demands Attention

I have a notion that by taking thought, by becoming conscious of our relations to our loved ones, by putting our attention on this situation, we might be able gradually to spread our sportsmanship wider and wider to include a great many situations in the home.

In such common instances as little arguments and disagreements between man and wife it might be possible for each to be calm and play the game in a fair way, neither taking undue advantage of the other, neither moving out of turn, both striving to abide by what he knows to be sportsmanlike conduct. Reason and not passion would prevail. What miracles, then, would come to pass!

Solving Parent Problems

Q. A girl who graduate from high school a year ago and is now a doctor's secretary wishes to know how she might improve her spelling which she says is very bad.

A. I suggest that she ask a school principal near her home to give her the name of a spelling book used in the fifth and sixth grades, then set herself to learn to spell a certain number of words in it every day; also to keep in a notebook a list of the words which have troubled her in her work, and to learn at home to spell these words. If she can make a plan and follow it with persistence, she will win. But it will require a lot of self-drive and discipline.

ALOOFNESS DOES NOT PAY

Martha is a sweet girl but socially lazy. The other day while she was at lunch with a small party of us, I had time to analyze her. Most of the time, she was silent with eyes down, abstracted rather than bashful. This lack of social effort has robbed her of the popularity she could have. When at a gay party, she sits back and listens attentively to others' stories and opinions without ever volunteering any of her own. Consequently her friends are beginnig to say that she is a drag. So, when invitation lists are compiled, poor Martha, now rated as a social liability, is not included. Her sister, Rhoda, on the other hand, although much less attractive physicaly, is always listed because by giving expression to her natural wit and vivacity, she is a stimulating influence. True, we cannot all be clever raconteurs; but although well-read and intelligent, Martha is simply holding her own light under a bushel and cheating herself of the merriment and gaiety which a girl of her age should be enjoying.

Question: Who keeps the wedding ring prior to the ceremony and what is the proper procedure for putting it on the bride's finger during the wedding ceremony?—W. W.

Answer: The bridegroom on the night before or the morning of the wedding gives the ring to the best man, who puts it in the pocket of his waistcoat. At that point in the ceremony where the ring is introduced, the best man should hand it to the bridegroom, who places it on the third finger of the bride's left hand. Just prior to this, the bride should hand her bouquet to the maid-of-honor and either remove her left glove or push back its ripped third finger. After the ring has been placed she may put on her glove or pull dow nthe finger, as the case may be.

Question: Should a woman help a man put on his overcast?—D. N.

Answer: Women should receive such attentions from men but give none in return. Unles a man is very old or an invalid, he should put on his own overcoat and should not accept any such assistance by a woman.

Lowell Mellett Hard Official To Contact
Is Government's Information Coordinator
Steers Visiting Strangers To Right Spot

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 19.—As director of Uncle Sam's Office of Government Reports, Lowell Mellett is Washington's capital source of wartime's official information. The ten federal executive departments and hundreds of subdivisions and independent agencies all have a publicity staff each, but Lowell coordinates their assorted activities.

To give an idea of the magnitude of his job, he's having a building erected for his own and his assistants' accommodation in the very center of town. It's to be one of those temporary frame affairs that are going up here, there and nearly everywhere, to meet the emergency's requirements. Undoubtedly the entire aggregation of 'em will be replaced later by elegant structures of stone or brick and mortar, but just now they're needed in too much of a hurry to permit that degree of permanency. This affair of Lowell's is to be only two stories high for the present, but it'll cover a whole city block, with room in it for a sizable army of the boss' deputies.

Some critics say Lowell demands a bigger force than is necessary. When he asked congress for an appropriation to build his new office, the committee his request was referred to turned it down pretty unceremoniously. Being a resourceful cuap, though, he did a bit of fixing and finally squeezed out a quarter of a million dollars.

Visitors Are At Sea

Personally I don't think he overestimates his task's proportions.

Washington simply swarms with visiting out-of-town businessmen, here in connection with war production that urgently needs being attended to.

The visitors, however, since they are strangers, don't know what functionaries they should call on, to get their questions answered. It's no wonder that they don't, either. Governmental bureaus have multiplied at such a rate in the last few months that they themselves aren't very certain which is among 'em.

This drives the visitors cuckoo and materially hampers our war effort. The out-of-townsmen seem to me entitled to insist on a headquarters that can set 'em straight on their errands. That is Lowell's outfit's mission. My only doubt is that even the Office of Government Reports is equal to dealing adequately with the problem. The mix-up's enough to set any expert guessing.

There likewise is another nigger in the woodpile, though.

Lowell Mellett is the hardest official in Washington to gain access to.

I agree that information ob-

The World and the Mud Puddles

TOO MUCH—JUST TOO MUCH.

That aggravating gentleman, Harold Ickes, is on the loose again. He has a wild idea that the oil companies of these United States cannot make sufficient gasoline for the use of the military and the non-military, so he proposes to ration gasoline. It looks as though we were going back to the horse-and-buggy days within the next year.—no cars sold, no tires for cars already in use and no gasoline.

The great business of this nation has been built for the last twenty-five years upon the motor car. Its life depends upon the motor car. A great part of the merchandise of this nation is moved from factory to user through wholesalers and retailers, through motor cars. A great part of the passenger travel of this country is handled by motor busses. Salesmen and collectors, performing their work and covering their territories, have to depend upon automobiles. Doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs are today at the mercy of the motor car.

I saw a great brewery wagon on the street recently, drawn by four great percherons,—a very stiff reminder of the horse-and-buggy days. Granting we have to go back to the horse and buggy, where are blacksmiths going to obtain horseshoes? The rorse must be shod just as much as the automobile and steel is rationed today just as are automobile tires. And what is going to happen to the poor horse, trotting on paved roads? It would not take long to ruin a horse.

No, the nation's leaders have gone clear crazy. They want enormous sums of money with which to conduct the war, but they won't let anybody make any money except grafters and when I speak of grafters, I include the Labor Leader racketeers, as well as the "king's favorites" occupying positions in the thousand and one Bureaus.

The President wishes to place a ceiling upon the price of everything except the price of labor and the price of agricultural products.

If inflation is going to be checked, there has got to be a ceiling upon the price of everything and if the necessary money is going to be rased for the conduct of the war, Capital has got to be released from the choking noose which has been placed upon its neck.

There are too many Mr. Ickeses in the seats of the mighty.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 19.—IT being clear that, while guns, tanks and ships are essential, primarily this is an air war and will be won in the air, the vital question is—will we have, in time, the big bombers and fighting planes to win in the air? The answer is Yes—unquestionably and emphatically—yes.

THAT is it is yes if it depends upon the manager and workers of the great aviation plants now going full blast in widely separated parts of the country. No one will dispute that who has had the opportunity to see these plants in full operation, to understand what they are doing and how—plants, for example, such as the vast Consolidated Aircraft Corporation here in California, directed by that doughty old industrialist, Tom Girdler, who, after a lifetime in steel, is now, without salary, concentrating heart and mind on the fascinating—he says—busines of making bombers bigger, better and faster than they can be made in Japan and Germany.

THAT, of course, is what all the other aircraft manufacturers — up and down both coasts and in the interior——ar—e doing, too. But out here in the Girdler plant, for the first time the big bombers are coming off the moving assembly line in the way automobiles used to come—more slowly, of course, because of the immensely greater size and complexity of the product, but coming just the same. That is a big and exciting fact. Heretofore, it has been held impossible to achieve mass production of these incredibly complicated and appallingly intricate weapons of war, with their 160,000 separate parts, exclusive of bolts, nuts and rivets, of which there are 600,000. General MacArthur arrived in Australia on St. Patrick's day with an old receipe for driving snakes out of the Pacific.

It is compounded of equal parts of daring and dynamite.

MacArthur is the square peg the Japs have been trying to fit into a round hole since early December.

Every time they got a hole dug he pushed them into it.

He is the fellow who erased "It can't be done" from the copy book and substituted "We're doing it."

He is a soldier, a scholar and gentleman.

He will never step on a Jap's face without murmuring "so sorry."

We don't know what this morale thing is that everybody talks about building but we have an idea MacArthur carries some in his saddle bags.

Thought for the day: MacArthur now pitching for civilization.

The proprietor of a well-known New York dancing studio can't quite understand who the great majority of his pupils are men of middle age and more.

"Every day dignified, elderly business and professional men come in to learn the rhumba, the samba and the other latest dances', he said.

"The clumsier they are, the more anxious they seem to be to perform complicated twists and gyrations.

"Do they think fancy dancing is a cure for arthritis or do they hope to recapture their lost youth?

"Some of those fellows would look more natural in a wheelchair than on the dance floor."

Don't you think the reason is obvious?

With success comes the wherewithal to patronize night clubs and expensive restaurants.

Money buys glamor, and glamor, being synonymous with youth, wants fun. Glamorous fun costs money, and young men rarely have the money to supply glamor with fun.

Though the joints creak, let the dance go on!

Council Asks For FOP Books

Controversy Develops Over Disposition Of Police Benefit Funds

ACTION TAKEN AT COUNCIL SESSION

Because of a reported disagreement between members as to how net receipts from their recent dance should best be deposed of, the local Fraternal Order of Police today was ordered to turn over all records to the city controller.

The order was issued by council in session in city hall, upon advice of City Solicitor W. M. White, after Controller S. L. Lockley said he had audited records of the secretary but his request for treasury books had not yet been complied with.

According to the city solicitor's information to council, the treasurer of the organization had resigned since the reported differences arose between members.

The controller, by law, is supposed to audit the accounts of any city department or association from which pensions are derived and said that action taken recently by the F.O.P. caused him to audit the dance accounts.

Dance Returns

The pension fund is derived from a part of each policeman's salary, by an appropriation from the general revenue of the city and also by receipts from outside activities conducted by the police.

Funds derived from outside activities by police, according to the controller, shall be presumed to be for the benefit of the pension fund and should be added to that fund.

Recently the F.O.P. employed J. W. Ducett to conduct a dance and the receipts amounted to $7,024. Of this, it is reported, Mr. Ducett got $2,717.02, the police, $2,824.63; the expenses amounted to $1,382.35 and $100 was given to the Community Chest.

The $2,824.63 was turned over to the treasurer of the F.O.P. on January 8, and of this, a check for $1,000 was turned over to the city treasurer for the administration of the police pension fund, Lockley's letter to council stated.

To Distribute Funds

"Concerning the amount remaining, slightly over $1,800, a motion was passed at a recent F.O.P. meeting stating 'that all members be given $25.00 each for uniforms'," his letter explained.

Lockley said that this was brought to his attention he started an investigation which resulted in an audit. He added that the matter of turning over the F.O.P. treasury records may be decided by them soon.

He stated also that in May 1941, the police had held a benefit boxing show in co-operation with the Jefferson A. C. The F.O.P. later, he declared, had voted $10.00 for uniforms to police.

Under the recent motion concerning the dance receipts, it was stated in council that, one member of the department and retired police were not to share in the division of the approximately $1,800. This brought matters to a head and finally into formal council session.

Lockley explained that it was not clear to him what percentage of the police force was in favor of disposing of the money as stated in the foregoing. He said police must buy their own uniforms and feel the method decided upon was proper, and also that the police feel that, as a fraternal organization it is necessary they have some method of financing their organization.

Florida Tourists May Feel Effect Of Gasoline Cut

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes told a press conference today that he had received a letter from Govornor Holland of Florida asking for exemption under the present gas curtailment program so that 200,000 winter tourists there could be assured of enough gas to get back home.

He said that he "could not see his way clear" to granting Holland's request.

"The fate of tourists in Florida," he said, "is nothing as compared to what the fate of tourists will be this summer in New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania."

Enlisted Police Aid To Find His Missing Molars

(International News Service)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Police of this city fulfilled a request which they record as a new high to prove that there's nothing people won't ask the long arm of John Law to do.

They received a frantic request from a Clearwater, Fla., gentleman asking them to locate a new set of false teeth, lost while he was on a spree in the local bars on a Saturday night.

"They were brand new," he wrote, "and I've only used them once."

Blessed with use of their original meat kneaders, two detectives were touched by the appeal, and set out on a search that took them through six bars.

The trail was long because the loser of the uppers and lowers said it was "quite a party" and he couldn't remember where he'd been.

Cites Importance Of Wood As U. S. Natural Resource

(International News Service)

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—The importance of wood as a natural resource in war time is being stressed by J. L. VanCamp, Purdue University extension forester.

Priorities demand metals and wood replaces metals in many places he pointed out.

"If a farmer has a corn field choked with weeds and cuts the corn, he has weeds left," Van Camp said. "If a dairyman has a herd, from which he sells all good calves and breeds from scrubs, he winds up with a herd of scrubs. This is what many woods owners have done with their timber. Overcutting and removing the best kinds leaves a woods full of tree weeds and culls.

"Fire injures large trees and causes scars and butt rot. Pasturing removes the new trees and damages the old."

The specialist said that good timber can be grown by leaving trees to good size, preferably 20 inches or better on the stump. Defective or poor species should be cut out for fuel.

Many handbag manufacturers, according to the Department of Commerce, have converted their facilities to making military kits, Sam Brown belts and other defense equipment.

CARRIER HAS HARD JOB

Jess Boak, Rural Letter Carrier No. 7, from the Mahoningtown Post Office, is making his rounds the last few days with difficulty. The country roads are very muddy and the ruts quite deep. With some help from those adjoining and using these roads by filling the holes in the roads much of this hardship in traveling could be eliminated.

STREET ROUGH

Folks having to travel along North Cedar street say they will be glad when the holes and ruts in the street have been repaired. Doubtless, automobile drivers are much concerned in having their tires last as long as possible during this period of conservation of rubber, as part of the war effo t.

IRON WHEELS RETURN

Bringing to the minds of observers that there was a conservation of rubber, was the sight of half a dozen farm tractors, with flat iron wheels, aboard a flat railroad car, passing through the ward Wednesday afternoon. Evidently the large rubber tires, with mud grips for the wheels, are "out".

RED CROSS CIRCLE

Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 the ladies of the Red Cross Sewing Circle met at the Presbyterian church. Much work was accomplished, quite a few children's dresses being completed. More help in this worthy war effort would be appreciated.

CALIFORNIA VISITOR

An informal time was enjoyed, and later dainty refreshments were served by the hostess with the aide of Mrs. G. D. Rainey.

March 25, is the date for the next meeting with Mrs. Michael Prescaro, Montgomery avenue.

What's What At A Glance

tained from one of his subordinates should be sufficient for an inquiring citizen—if the subordinate's able to give it. Yet there's an occasional knotty issue that it's desirable for the main boss to pass on, and anybody who can horn into that bird's private office is a curiosity. I could get a friend a date at the White House or Buckingham Palace or an interview with Chiang Kai-shek with less trouble than I can guarantee him admission to Lowell's sanctum.

And, mind you this—

I've been well acquainted with that guy for more than 30 years, and always have been on the best possible terms with him. I've worked on the same newspapers with him. I've had him on my staff, news gathering. I've boarded in the same house with him. We've eaten daily at the same table. Now and then we meet, by accident, and it's an encounter of old cronies.

No Admittance

But do you suppose I can get a side-kick of mine so much as into his official reception room with a letter of introduction from me?

Not so you could notice it. Out they're canned as soon as their credentials are presented. I've made the attempt several times, in deserving cases, have received complaints from disappointed customers, have passed the complaints along to Lowell, and, in each instance, the reply has been, "Evidently this was an accident. Tell the bird to come again and I'll be rejoiced to see him." And then he's gone back and the incident has been repeated. It gets aggravating with repetition.

It isn't Lowell, I know. It's his secretariat.

That's the hardest boiled bunch in Washington.

It's TOO hard boiled. It's becoming unpopular.

Publicity that makes the public sore isn't a desirable form of publicity.

The fact is that Lowell Mellett's a newspaperman, and a corking good one, but he doesn't realize that all his good work can be nullified by an intermediate bunch of unintelligent secretaries.

Gosh-ding these girl secretaries!

SOFT LIFE, SOFT TEETH

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O.—Our soft civilization is wrecking the nation's teeth, Dr. Charles A. Sweet, of Oakland, Calif., past president of the American Society of Dentistry for Children, asserted in Cincinnati recently. "Soft food plus soft living equals soft people with soft and decayed teeth," was the equation in which Dr. Sweet explained deteriorating teeth.

THE SPIRIT OF EASTER 1942

What better way to dispel the gloom of war than by dressing up in new clothes to celebrate the gladsome spirit of Easter. Greet Easter 1942 with new clothes as the most effective bulwark for morale. Greet Easter with new clothes as the American way of saying "thumbs up." Greet Easter 1942 in the traditional American way of dressing up for this important holiday.

But—be sure to be sensible about it. In times like these waste and extravagance are out. Thrift and common-sense are the watch-words!

Here at the Julian Goldman Store we've made it possible for you to outfit yourself, and your family, in good taste and at prices in keeping with the times. That's because of the Julian Goldman crusade against rising prices. That's because of the Julian Goldman policy of keeping prices down. A daring policy—but it's proved successful—for our patrons as well as for us. In every city that boasts a Julian Goldman Store we've made thousands of new friends who have saved by this policy of keeping prices down.

By all means dress up for Easter—but don't waste dollars in needless extravagance. Make them count—get the utmost for your money by shopping at less, it is being done. In the Consolidated plant, starting last Saturday, they are coming off the moving assembly as the infinitely simpler automobile came before its production stopped. It is a tribute to the aircraft manufacturer, who perhaps, is justly proud that the automobile manufacturer did not lead the way.

IT is not permitted to give production figures, nor to describe, except in general terms, the operation. However, certain things can be said. One is that the big bombers are coming off far paster than anyone believed possible. They are coming off faster, in fact, than the Army and Navy can furnish fully trained flying crews to fly them. They are coming off the line so fast that the totals are tremendously cheering. The pace these plants have struck now in the most heartening thing in all the country. It lifts the spirit. It is a sustaining antidote to bad news. It createst confidence, inspires admiration and respect.

THE most stimulating thing, of course, is that while what they have done and are doing is literally a manufacturing miracle, these plants really have just got going. If unhampered by factors beyond their control; if unchecked by governmental red tape and incompetence; if not delayed by labor politicians and their allies within the administration, the production of these bombers and fighting planes will increase month by month until what seemed the fantastic program announced by the president last January is not only equalled but surpassed.

IN such a forecast as this, of course, is always an "if." In this case the "if" has nothing to do with management or labor. There is no apprehension about anything connected with the plant or the workers. The relations between management and men are cordial and cooperative. There is no apprehension about sabotage or enemy attack, against both of which the precautions seem adequate and ample.

THERE is apprehension lest raw materials run out and the necessary gadgets, which cannot be made in the plants themselves but must come from the outside, prove unobtainable. For the supply of the raw materials and certain gadgets, the aircraft plant must rely upon outside manufacturers and the government. If crippling shortages do not develop through the ineffectiveness of governmental priorities or the inability of government officials to live up to their own exhortations, then everything is all right. If these do not fail, the bombers will keep coming off the line at a steadily accelerated pace and a smashing victory will be as sure as sunrise.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Rubber Co. Director Says Supply Can Be Secured From Latin America And Free French

By KINGSBURY SMITH

Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Eleven Latin American nations and the Free French are prepared to make available to the United States thousands of tons of rubber to meet civilian and military defense needs of this country, Elliot E. Simpson, director of the Drexsage Rubber Co., of New York, said today.

In a statement concerning available sources of rubber, Simpson, who has been requested to testify before three congressional committees, said evidence now at hand indicates "There is no necessity for depriving the American people of their motor cars because of any danger of a rubber shortage."

Simpson cited foreign consular officials and other sources as claiming that there are 300,000,000 rubber trees in Brazil, 20,000,000 rubber trees in Mexico, and more than 95,000 trees in Honduras.

"Assurances have been received from the consular representatives of 12 friendly powers, eleven of whom are neighbors of this country in the western hemispher, that thousands of tons of rubber can be made quickly available in their respective countries," Simpson said.

Jesus The Messiah Foretells His Death

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Trial before Pilate.

"For whosoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for My sake and the gospel's shall save it."—Mark 8:35.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 22 is Matthew 16:13-28; Mark 8:27-37; Luke 9:18-25, the Golden Text being Mark 8:35. "For whosoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's shall save it.")

We spend our Sunday school hour today with Jesus and His disciples. The latter had accompanied the Master to the villages of Caesarea Philippi which our commentator says "were distinguished from that upon the coast of the Mediterranean, as Caesarea Philippi. It was in Philip's tetarchy, and had recently been rebuilt by Philip and named after Augustus." This place was the farthest north in Palestine reached by Jesus during His life.

The Master first asked the disciples who the people thought He was. He knew He was a much discussed person, and as the Jews were always looking for the Messiah, who was to come and reign as prophet, priest and king, on an earthly throne for ever more, Jesus was very much interested to know what was said concerning Him and who the people to whom He preached thought He was. Some of the disciples said He was thought to be John the Baptist, others thought He was Elijah, and still others conjectured that He was one of the other prophets come back. Then Jesus asked them directly, "But who say ye that I am?" Peter, the ready speaker, answered at once, "Thou art the Christ."

Answer Pleased Jesus

The answer pleased Jesus who knew then that these men who were so closely associated with Him and who would carry on the work when He was on earth no longer, understood the truth. He commended Peter or his answer and told him that God only could have revealed it to him, but warned the disciples to tell no one.

He felt then that the time had come to tell these associates of His of His coming trial, death and resurrection. Even though they knew He was the Christ, it must have been a severe shock to hear about the suffering to come of this Christ whom they so loved. Peter answered quickly, aside to his Lord, "Be it far from Thee, Lord: this shall not be unto Thee." He was immediately rebuked by Jesus, who said, "Get thee behind me Satan: thou are an offence unto Me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men."

The rebuke seemed extreme after the praise just bestowed upon Peter. Undoubtedly, Jesus did not mean that Peter was evil, but that He, like Satan, was tempting his Lord, to whom, in His earthly body, the sufferings to come would be great. The Master then told the disciples what was the supreme test of a Christian, or follower of His.

"If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

"For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

The life of the follower of Jesus, then, is sacrifice. He must shoulder his cross, and follow in the footsteps of the Master. He must not so enjoy the good things of this world that he forgets that there is something for more important. For if he does, he will find that he has lost the really good things of life—those of the spirit—and what he has is dust and ashes in his mouth.

The soul of man is the important part of him. He may go through untold suffering here, but if he keep steadfast and true, stepping in the footsteps of his Master even unto death, he "need fear no ill," for the Lord will be with him, and he will be comforted and crowned with "eternal life."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Alien Evacuation From Nearby Farms Hits Food Prices In San Francisco

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Evacuation of alien Japanese and Italians from farm areas in forbidden areas has already cut supplies of some vegetable products and sent prices soaring on the San Francisco market.

The announcement was made by federal, state, and city agricultural officials who said that in some commodities, prices have soared as much as 100 per cent and shipments have been reduced 40 per cent since the beginning of the war.

It was reported the price of celery had gone up to three dollars a crate compared to two dollars a crate at last year's price.

Lettuce was up to three dollars a crate, an increase of 160 per cent over last year's prices.

Asparagus, just reaching the market after a twenty day delay, was much higher than expected.

Although artichokes have appeared on grocers shelves without noticeable increase, farmers throughout the Bay Area said that unless alien Japanese and Italians were allowed to return to the farms, supplies would be greatly reduced and prices would rocket. Agriculture associations declared that although the present supply was ample to take care of present needs, the future supply may be jeopardized if the alien labor is not returned.

However, many officials feel that because of recent suspected fifth column activities that have been linked to recent enemy action off the west coast, even more aliens would be evacuated.

Reveals First U. S. Forces In Australia Enroute Before War

(Editor's Note: A revelation that the first United States convoy to land troops in Australia originally started for Manila prior to the Jap sneak attack on Pearl Harbor is contained in the following dispatch from Lee Van Atta, who accompanied the convoy.)

By LEE VAN ATTA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WITH THE U. S. AIR FORCES IN AUSTRALIA, March 19.—I was the only newspaper man aboard the first United States convoy bringing American troops to Australia.

Originally we were bound for Manila to reinforce Gen. MacArthur's air force. We sailed from Honolulu in November.

The war caught our convoy several hundred miles south of Wake island, en route first to Guam.

The gaily painted ships, flourishing red, white and blue flags, were hastily converted in the space of a few hours to dingy gray troopships bent on a war errand of utmost importance.

For days we roamed the South Pacific, waiting war developments and afraid to venture near the Japanese mandated islands.

Our navy officers were worried about the Philippine situation, fearing we would arrive too late.

Finally we received orders from Washington setting up the first South Pacific task force under temporary command of Brig. Gen. Julian Barnes.

Submarine Attack

Our journey to Australia was highlighted by a midnight enemy submarine attack while we were still a week away from our destination. The convoy suffered no casualties, but it was reported reliably that the heavy cruiser guiding the United States vessels sank the enemy attacker.

When we docked at the Australian port, thousands of Australians lined the shore to give the Americans a greeting which will long be remembered. The ship on which I was a passenger—a former Dutch luxury liner—was commandeered at the port and its valuable cargo of dozens of warplanes unloaded to the great delight of the Australians at the wharf, who muttered over and over:

"Everything is going to be all right now. Thank God, the Yanks are here at last."

No Americans were lonely over the holidays, That I can guarantee. For even though the presence of the A. E. F. was supposed to be the darkest kind of secret, hundreds of Australians opened their homes for gala Christmas and New Year's celebrations.

This, it should be remembered, was the first foreign fighting force ever to come to the aid of Australia in the history of the island continent.

The Yanks soon moved into action. Officers' headquarters of the A. E. F. took up several floors of our building; whole automobile showrooms contents were bought out to provide transportation facilities; trees were cut down to build barracks and houses were purchased.

In fact, everything possible was done to effect the rapid establishment of the United States forces.

Set Up Headquarters

Then Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett arrived and set up headquarters for the southwest Pacific air command of the United Nations. I rode with General Brett's aide, Lieut. Bobb B. Glenn Jr. of Columbus, Mo., in a five-car automobile convoy through a number of Australian cities and everywhere our entry was greeted with hilarious jubilation. Official welcome were always forthcoming from the mayors of the cities and sight-seeing tours were unvariably arranged.

Hotel rooms and meals were strictly "on the house." At times the enthusiasm was so great in smaller towns that it was almost impossible to get through the crowds. All this happened despite the fact that our presence was a secret so far as Australian newspapers were concerned.

Tremendous dinner fetes and cocktail parties were held for the entire headquarters staff by socially-prominent Australians.

One of the biggest "treats" given any American was the 17-minute telephone conversation First Lieut. Cecil Johnston of Victoria, Tex., enjoyed with his family shortly after his arrival—paid for by a prominent Australian stockbroker.

The Americans now are mingling whole-heartedly in Australian social life, especially in the lodges and churches.

After being here for three months, I still cannot over-emphasize the friendliness of the Australians.

They're glad we're here.

GEN. MacARTHUR TAKES UP TASK IN PACIFIC AREA

aerial flight from the Bataan peninsula to Australia to become southwest Pacific commander of United Nations forces was one of the most spectacular in the annals of military history.

Plans In Operation

No details either of the flight or of MacArthur's plans can be disclosed, however, Hurley said. The plans were said to be in operation already, however.

The hero of Bataan was reported to be in excellent physical condition and ready to tackle his new task with serene confidence and the same efficient aggressiveness which has characterized his entire military career.

"I have just returned from a meeting with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the allied forces in the southwest Pacific, including the Philippine islands," said Hurley. "Under an order of the president of the United States, with the concurrence and enthusiastic approval of other governments affected, the headquarters of General MacArthur have been transferred to Australia.

Breathes Spirit Of Victory

"General MacArthur breathes the very spirit of victory.

"His paramount purpose is to organize as rapidly as possible an offensive force for the eventual defeat of Japan, which will also relieve his beleaguered garrison in the Philippine islands.

"He specifically stated that he is in command of the Philippine situation and has the utmost confidence that he will again be back on Filipino soil.

"General MacArthur's break through the Japanese blockade was one of the most spectacular adventures in military annals. The details of this thrilling and dramatic episode cannot now be revealed.

"I am not authorized to disclose the details of General MacArthur's plans as they must be regarded as military secrets. I am authorized, however, to state that the plans are being put in operation and that he is approaching his new task with the same serene confidence and efficient aggressiveness that characterized his brilliant career as a soldier and his magnificent defense of the Philippine islands."

One person who has seen him since his arrival in Australia told International News Service that MacArthur was the "same, quiet, determined, confident aggressive fighter as ever and shows no wear and tear from the fighting in the Philippines." Whereabouts of the general, his wife and small son, Arthur, remained an official secret. The time and date of his arrival at his new headquarters also remained unannounced today.

Mrs. MacArthur and the child also were reported to have withstood the flight from the Philippines in excellent fashion.

GRANDFATHER ENLISTS

(International News Service)

MEDFORD, Mass. — Arthur B. Colgate, 43, who didn't get into the last war because of dependents, has enlisted as a cook in the naval reserves "to protect my two grandchildren." The youthful grandfather turned over the management of his catering business to a daughter. He explained that his three daughters, who were his dependents in 1917 and 1918, now are old enough to take care of themselves.

A U. S. Hero—and Hers Too

Mrs. Richard Carmichael, of Olean, N. Y., is justly proud of her flying husband, whose picture she holds. For, Major Carmichael commanded the squadron of eight U. S. bombers which raided Japanese shipping at Salamaua, New Guinea, leaving two ships sunk, four on fire and one beached. The next day they returned and blasted a Jap aerodrome at Salamaua and knocked down five enemy planes. (Central Press) was not included in this communique, but was put out by reliable sources at Sydney.

Bomb Timor Airdrome

The communique said the attacking planes also bombed the airdrome at Koepang, Dutch Timor Island, yesterday for the second time in 24 hours.

"Large numbers of bombs were dropped and hits were observed on runways and buildings," the communique stated.

"Fires were visible for 50 miles.

"One aircraft failed to return.

"Shipping in the center of Rabaul Harbor was bombed successfully. A rising column of smoke followed a direct hit on the heavy Japanese cruiser.

"Near misses were scored against two other large vessels.

"Reconnaissance flights were made over other parts of the New Britain area.

"Enemy fighter planes made reconnaissance flights over Papua and New Guinea and the islands near Cape York yesterday. No offensive action was taken.

"Later enemy fighters attacked shipping in the vicinity of the Cape York islands, but no damage was reported."

Continuing Onslaught

The new raids were part of the continuing United Nations onslaught against Jap bases north of the Australian mainland.

Curtin's announcement was issued as the commonwealth remained in a jubilant frame of mind over the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander in this area and over the formal announcement that "considerable" American forces are now in this country.

The latest United Nations aerial blow was delivered in reply to two Jap air raids on Tulagi, capital of the Solomon islands.

In the first of these raids bombs were dropped from 8,000 feet, a flying boat was slightly damaged and two or possibly three natives were killed. The second raid caused no casualties and only slight damage. Florida also was raided.

No commander of the Australian forces has yet been appointed to work under Gen. MacArthur, but informed quarters said an Australian of high reputation will be chosen.

It was expected a high Australian army officer will be appointed to MacArthur's staff, and that Australian air force and navy officers also will hold important posts.

GERMAN RESERVES SEEKING TO HALT RUSSIAN ADVANCE

preventing them from evacuating. The Nazis attempted futile counter-attacks near the locality of "T."

A Russian guard unit west of Moscow was reported to have liberated 35 additional villages in the past five days during which 1,500 Germans were killed.

The Germans were reported in an official communique to have lost 3,000 dead in a five-day battle on one sector of the central front, while other Russian advices indicated the Soviet offensive along the entire front from northern Karelia to the Kerch peninsula were taking an increasingly heavy toll of Germans in killed and wounded.

On Leningrad Front

Several thousand Germans were killed in heavy fighting on the Leningrad front where Russian troops occupied an important enemy defense point, according to the Leningrad radio.

In the Staraya Russa sector, far to the northwest of Moscow where remnants ofthe German 16th army are trapped, the Moscow radio reported "the German defense system has been broken up on all chief sectors."

Savage counter-attacks by newly arrived German reserves on the southwest front were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy, the Moscow radio said. The advance of Soviet forces was reported continuing.

The mid-day communique announced the sinking by Russian naval units of a 3,500-ton enemy transport in the Barents sea. No essential changes took place on the fighting fronts during the night, it was said.

Announcement of the slaying of 3,000 Nazis on the central front was made in a supplement to the midnight communique of the Red army in which it had been stated that "nothing of importance occurred at the front."

Forty-four German planes were destroyed Tuesday while the Russians lost 16, the communique said.

(Dispatches from Stockholm reported, meanwhile, that 10,000 Germans had been killed in ten days of fighting on the southern front.)

WHISTLE BROUGHT CALLS

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—When a locomotive whistle in the Terminal Railroad yards here became struck recently during the night, the police received an avalanche of telephone calls, including one from a woman who asked: Are the Japs bombing us?" Two hundred calls jammed the police switchboard during the 20 minutes the whistle was stuck.

'Rattlesnake Kate' Is Eager To Face Japs

(International News Service)

FORT LUPTON, Colo.—Let the Japs come—"Rattlesnake Kate" is ready for them.

After coping with blizzards, drouths, pests and other natural obstacles, she fears no Jap, said Mrs. Kate Slaughterback, who is a modern Annie Oakley with a shotgun and handles a club almost as well.

Mrs. Slaughterback, a determined woman who operates her own 160-acre farm near Fort Lupton, is known to her friends as "Rattlesnake Kate". They feel she is equal to any emergency that may arise and would even venture a small bet she could make life miserable for parachutists or other unwanted visitors in the vicinity.

She currently favors the shotgun, but it was swinging a club which brought her fame and a nickname back in 1925. That year, Mrs. Slaughterback's farm became a haven for rattlesnakes. She tried one experiment after another to rid the land of them, but without success.

Finally, she tried her own simple plan—that of clubbing them to death. And it worked. One day she clubbed 100 snakes.

"I am just as ready to take the same kind of measures agains our enemies," she declared.

What is more, she believes Japs are much more deadly than snakes. "At least a snake's rattles give you warning before they attack," she said. "And those Japs don't."

Experts Say Tomatoes Easiest For Amateurs

Local Home Gardeners Give Advice On Victory Vegetable Growing

Tomatoes have the unanimous vote of local amateur-gardeners as the most satisfactory vegetable. "Try tomatoes first", say those who have had experience with growing vegetables. Well recommended, too, are onions, beans and lettuce, for growing here, if you want to try just a few vegetables in the backyard this summer, and be pretty sure of success. But what you plant is not the whole recipe for success.

Our inquiries, made as a result of the current victory vegetable gardening agitation, also brought forth cautions that are timely about not planting more than you can take care of, not wasting seeds, seedlings, or fertilizer—as amateurs are likely to do, and not trying to grow vegetables on ground that hasn't been cultivated before.

But if your enthusiasm and experience in the garden have you going so you are sure you can get as much green stuff—not to mention fun—out of a few packages of seed, as the next fellow, you will be interested in the views of some others here who share your enthusiasm.

Garden Club Head's Ideas

Mrs. L. F. Royston, president of the Lawrence County Garden club: "We have discussed this matter of growing vegetables in our club, and quite a few of our members are planning to give space to vegetables this year. As for our own family, we're going to try to raise all the vegetables we can use ourselves.

"Last summer we had only a small space given to them, but we did have twelve tomato plants that furnished us with all the tomatoes we could use for summer eating and putting up, and we gave some away. This year we plan to give much more space to vegetables," including peas, beans, lima beans, "of course tomatoes," and the smaller vegetables, but "corn takes up too much space for the good you get out of it".

As a final word of caution she added, "you have to keep the weeds down, and you have to spray".

Practical Advice

Practical advice for the home gardener came from John Robinson, a member of the Men's Garden club, and a man who has had a vegetable garden every summer since 1914. (He caught us up, too, on a statement that was in a News article the other evening about not planting pepper and tomato seeds until warm weather, pointing out that you would never get any peppers or tomatoes that way. As all gardeners know, these seeds have to be started in early spring in a hothouse, and an amateur will get the best results by buying plants and planting them outdoors when the weather is warm.)

Robinson had a valuable tip to offer for those who plan to put in some corn. "It's best to plant crosses like Golden Cross Bantam or Marcross, because these don't get Stewart's wilt that has caused crop failure of standard varieties in our neighborhood.

"Lettuce and cabbage are easy to grow. You can plant lettuce as soon as the ground is fit and make succession sowings every two weeks till July. For peas that can be planted early, use the smooth-seed early. But beans are easier to raise than peas, and shell beans for winter use are easy to raise. With beans your only trouble comes from having to dust for bean beetles.

"All root crops are fairly easy, except radishes and turnips, where you'll have trouble with maggots if they're planted in too heavy a soil.

"Onions are no trouble. Ebenezer onion sets grow the mildest onions and make wonderful green onions, but you can't always get them. Prizetaker and Yellow Globe Danver are good onions for fall and are good keepers.

"Don't try eggplant—they're mighty hard to raise.

Home Vegetable Growers

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Sontum, of Miller avenue, are home vegetable growers of many years' experience, too. They have had a vegetable garden every year for 24 years—since their marriage during World War 1. Mrs. Sontum's recommendations for the best vegetables to grow were lettuce, radishes, beans, tomatoes, and peppers, but corn is not for the backyard—and cucumbers take up too much room there too."

The Sontums are making the generous offer of the use of an acre of their ground on a main road that "has been worked every year and so is in condition to be worked by one or more families."

The Oakwood Garden club, of which Mrs. Sontum is a member, is going to try to work for victory gardening through the children of the Union township schools, by encouraging them to grow both flowers and vegetables, then have a competitive display next fall.

Recording secretary of the Men's Garden club, J. D. McClelland had this to say about the victory garden movement: "The Men's Garden club has offered the county victory garden committee our full support and we have volunteeered our services to canvass the county for land that can be cultivated to grow vegetables."

McClelland himself is going to "put in a few vegetables—just some tomatoes, beans and peas."

Commenting on amateur enthusiasm for putting in victory gardens, he says it's a good thing to keep in mind the adage, "Anybody can start something—what it takes is a good finisher."

New Airport In Mercer County To Be Selected

(International News Service)

MERCER, Pa., March 19.—M. B. Orr, Mercer, chairman of the Mercer County war board, today announced that site for a government airport will be selected in Mercer County.

Orr said he has been notified by federal officials that 250 new airfields are to be established, and that each county board has been requested to recommend a site consisting of between 1,000 and 2,000 acres. The board has not yet considered any available tracts in Mercer County but will do so immediately, Orr said.

Garden Hints

When properly managed, a 50 by 100 foot plot of ground should provide fresh vegetables for a family of five, with an abundance of tomatoes, corn, beans, peas, and others, to can and still others to store.

Do not become overly ambitious when planting the vegetable garden and plant all of it at once. Instead, plan for a succession of a few of the family's favorite crops.

In some areas, it is necessary to apply lime about every three years to correct soil acidity and to insure the proper growth of plants. If beets and spinach thrive in a garden it is a fair indication that lime is not needed.

If manure is not available for feeding the vegetable garden, then a complete fertilizer should be broadcast each spring and thoroughly incorporated in the top six or eight inches of soil.

Uncover the strawberry beds gradually. Any plants which have been heaved out due to frost should be "stepped" back in place. The covering material may be kept between the row to mulch the ground and keep the berries from the earth.

Fertile soil is necessary in the vegetable garden so that the crops can be grown as rapidly as possible. There is a great difference in the appearance, taste and yield of vegetables which have been properly fed.

'Mobile' Camp Units May Prove Solution To Threat Of Farm Labor Shortage

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In the face of a threatened farm labor shortage in which large defense plants will swallow up a good part of the available farm labor supply, "Mobile" camp units of the farm security administration may prove invaluable as the agriculture department's answer to the farmer's prayer.

The farm security administration is the one agency well equipped to handle an ever growing need for farm labor and the one agency able to offer an adequate solution to the housing of migrant farmers.

With the agriculture department besieged with cries for help by farmers all over the land, the FSA's mobile camp is the handiest cure-all for relieving local labor shortages and providing comfortable and inexpensive housing.

FSA started building these mobile camps in 1936 primarily as a sanitation measure to meet some of the urgent health and housing problems forced on the west coast states by the vast wave of migration from Oklahoma., Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and other mid-west farming areas.

Make-Up Of Camp

The mobile camp consists of army-type tents with sidewalks or platforms. Each tent is furnished with a portable stove and one double and two single or four single beds. Each camp has a community tent and a placement office tent. Electric power for lighting is provided by connections with existing lines. Other facilities include water systems and pumphouses, water heaters, laundry equipment and showers.

These "camps on wheels" or tent colonies can be dismantled and moved overnight, and cost but a fraction of what is needed to erect a "permanent" camp unit, FSA points out.

The typical camp unit houses about 200 families or 1,000 individuals, with operating costs amounting to about $1,000 per month.

23 Camps In Operation

FSA has 23 mobile camps now in operation, with an additional 27 under construction. Eighteen of these will be used to provide shelter for 2,700 farm laborer families in the commercial crop areas along the eastern seaboard.

Movement of camps from one site to another, it was explained, is determined by local farm labor needs as they develop during the growing and harvesting seasons. FSA representatives cooperate with farm placement officials of the U. S. Employment Service in routing agricultural workers to camps in crop areas where workers are most needed.

These mobile camps are one answer to a serious farm labor shortage which agriculture officials agree is mainly a question of maldistribution.

New Wilmington News

HEAR HUMORIST

The joint club meeting of the local Rotary and Kiwanis organizations, held recently, featured an address by Harper Garcia Smyth of Cleveland, a well-known humorist and lecturer.

Mr. Smyth gave a humorously philosophical talk on the theme "Personality" and illustrated his address with many stories.

An address of welcome to the visiting Kiwanians was made by Howard Temple, head of Rotary, and Kiwanis President Russell C. Sewall responded. Group singing was led by James Hayden with William Earl, Westminster college junior from New Castle, at the piano.

DEDICATORY CONCERT

Louise Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Kerr of New Castle, will be the assisting artist on the program of the dedicatory concert to be held in the local Methodist church on April 5 (Easter). The concert will feature Walter Fawcett, well-known Pittsburgh organist, and will dedicate the Hammond electric organ recently installed in the church.

Miss Kerr, a soprano, is a junior music major at Westminster college, and a member of the Methodist church choir.

ART EXHIBIT

Plans are now being made for the Community Art Exhibit, sponsored by the local chapter of the A. A. U. W., which has been set for April 23, 24 and 25 in the display room of Westminster college's library.

The exhibit will feature a display of china and earthenware. New Wilmington residents are being asked to contribute any fine pieces which they may possess to the exhibit.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. J. Ralph Neale, Mrs. Mary McConagha, Miss Jane Kerr, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, Mrs. Ross Ellis, Miss Dorothy Kirkbride, Miss Anne Caldwell and Mrs. Nathan Frey.

The A. A. U. W. meeting for March will be held on Friday evening, March 27, in Browne hall, at which time college senior women will be entertained by the members. In charge will be Dean of Women Mary Turner.

GIRL SCOUTS

New Wilmington's Girl Scouts will hold their anual cookie sale the week of March 30, according to officials of the two local troops.

The sale, which is the troops' main means of making money to carry on their activities, will be held in conjunction with that of the New Castle scout organizations.

Officials of the two troops are Mrs. Frank Buckley, Mrs. Ralph Buchanan, Mrs. Harry Allen and Mrs. A. O. Shaffer.

COUNTY CONTESTS

New Wilmington high school will have five entrants in the Lawrence county forensic and music contests, to be held March 28 on Westminster college's campus.

Under the direction of Robert Johnson, high school music instructor, three choruses—boys', girls' and mixed—are preparing their contest numbers. In addition, the local high school will have representation in the boys' octet and soprano solo events. Last year the octet won in the county and district competition, and took third place in the state finals held in New Castle.

Peggy Lee Reed, sophomore, is a contestant in the soprano solo contest.

SCHOOL EVENT

The "National Bond Dance" being sponsored by the senior class of New Wilmington high school is open to everyone, according to officials of the affair.

Decorations stressing the patriotic motif are being featured at the dance, which is to be held at the Community House this Friday evening. Games, singing and a grand march for victory will also be a part of the show.

Patricia Fordney, class president, has named the following committee chairmen: Helen Williamson, Catherine Young, Iva Mae Struble and Zada Garner.

IN SCOUT TROOP

At a recent investiture ceremony, the following girls were taken into New Wilmington Girl Scout troop II: Janet Hawthorne, Mary Edith Kerr, Patsy Sferra, Mary Jo Wilson, Lotta Vazey, Leila Marie Blake and Joan Buckley.

Second class badges were awarded to Eleanor Garrett, Sally Hart, Jean Shaffer, Kathryn Semple, Marjorie Semple, Sylvia Shellenberger, Grace Temple and Harriet Peters. Life saving badges were presented to Nancy Buckley and Jean Shaffer, and swimming badges were received by Jean Shaffer, Peggy Phillips, Patsy McClure and Nancy Buckley.

GHOST BASKETBALL

Ghost basketball will make its first appearance in New Wilmington on Friday, March 27, at the Community House, when the Kiwanis five will play the college faculty team. The other game on the night's program will feature next years' high scool varsity vs. the senior class.

Money received will be used for the benefit of the high school athletic association. Arrangements are in charge of Basketball Coach John Eagleson.

Red Cross To Open Clubs In Ireland

Service Club Will Be Established For Forces In Northern Ireland

The American Red Cross will establish two service clubs for soldiers, sailors and marines from the United States now on duty in northern Ireland, Chairman R. F. Davis of the local chapter has been informed.

The clubs will be in two cities in the leave area in north Ireland. They will be operated for enlisted personnel on leave from camps, and for sailors and marines on shore leave. Recreational facilities, sleeping quarters and canteens will be provided in the clubs because adequate facilities for U. S. military men visiting the nearby cities are not now available.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, U. S. A., has designated the American Red Cross as the agency to furnish welfare and recreational service to American expeditionary forces. Plans now are under way to establish similar Red Cross service clubs for enlisted personnel on leave wherever the commanding officers of America's outpost forces request the service, Mr. Davis said.

Crime Increase In United States Is F. B. I. Report

By CHARLES W. BUERGELIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 19—Crime is on the increase today in the United States, it was announced by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in its fourth quarterly report.

The number of major crimes in 1941 was well over 1,000,000, which is an estimated increase of 14,000 over the figure of 1940.

Murder and negligent manslaughter increased, while robbery and burglary were on the decrease.

Murder cases increased three-tenths of one per cent; negligent manslaughter, 3 per cent; rape, 2 per cent; aggravated assault, 4 per cent; larceny, 1 per cent, and auto theft, 7 per cent. Robbery decreased 6 per cent and burglary 4 per cent, it was stated in the report.

Trend Figures Stated

In time of war, factors contributing to the commission of crimes are subject to constant change, because of the numerous and rapid modifications occurring in the social and economic features of many communities. For this reason an increasing number of law enforcement agencies carefully study monthly, weekly, daily, hourly, yearly and geographical variations in the occurrence of crime within their jurisdiction, in order to more efficiently plan and execute a preventive and remedial program.

The report stated that age 19 predominated in the frequency of arrests and was followed in this respect by ages 18, 21, 20 and 23. The report revealed that 33 per cent of all robberies, 46 per cent of burglaries, 33 per cent of larcenies and 57 per cent of auto thefts were committed by youths under 21 years of age.

LOCAL GIRLS' PAINTING PLACED ON DISPLAY

Much progress is being noted in the paintings of Anna Lou General, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem General of 930 South Mill street, who is taking the art courses at the Pearson street community center, under the supervision of Elsie Amberson.

Her clever painting of the Indianapolis cruiser has been completed and has been on display at the Reynolds and Summers store.

Anna Lou is in the ninth grade at Ben Franklin high school.

Compensation Fund Jumps Two Million

Unemployment Compensation Fund Balance Now $232,400,000 In State

"The Pennsylvania Unemployment compensation fund was increased by more than $2,100,000 during the final week in February. This figure raises the fund's balance to the unprecedented total of $232,400,000. This addition came from two sources—about $900,000 was received in employers contributions and the remaining $1,200,000 representing interest on the fund credited quarterly to Pennsylvania by the United States Treasury," according to a statement issued by Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines.

35,000 Benefit

During this same week nearly $400,000 was paid in benefits to over 35,000 unemployed workers, bringing the total number of checks issued in February to 158,000. Approximately 29,000 initial claims were filed during February, effecting a 15 per cent decrease over the corresponding month last year.

The secretary also made the observation that February saw the fund balance increased by $22,700,000, the second largest monthly balance in the bureau's history.

Words Of Wisdom

All confidence is dangerous, if it is not entire; we ought on most occasions to speak all, or conceal all. We have already too much disclosed our secrets to a man from whom we think any one single circumstance is to be concealed.—Bruyere.

Attractive Home Wedding Performed Wednesday By Rev. C. S. Hayner

ELLWOOD CITY, March 19.—A lovely home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when Miss Eleanor Margaret Pflugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pflugh of North Sewickley township, became the bride of George Grover Gray, also of North Sewickley township.

The ceremony was solemnized in the presence of the immediate families by Rev. C. S. Hayner, pastor of Burry's Lutheran church. The bridegroom's pastor, Rev. J. C. Lorimer, pastor of the Beaver Falls U. P. church, also attended. The single ring ceremony was performed.

Preceding the service, Miss Jean Gray, sister of the bridegroom, sang a lovely solo, "I Love You Truly", accompanied by Miss Grace Neuman.

For her wedding, the bride chose a beautiful white moire satin gown and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Miss Mary Edith Gray, another sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor, and appeared in a becoming poudre blue gown and her flowers were pink roses.

Frederick Henry Pflugh, brother of the bride, was the best man.

In the early evening a wedding dinner was served the guests, numbering 21. The bride's table was prettily decorated with a pink and white color motif and the flowers were sweet peas in the same colors.

Later the couple departed on a wedding trip to Cleveland and other points. Returning home, they will reside in North Sewickley township, where the bridegroom follows the farming occupation.

Polyanna Members Mark Anniversary

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Of Club Observed With Delightful Dinner

ELLWOOD CITY, March 19—Polyanna club members celebrated their silver anniversary in a most delightful manner with a 1 o'clock luncheon on Wednesday at the First Methodist church.

The club was organized twenty-five years ago by a group of women who met together to knit for the soldiers, and the only sad part of the celebration was the fact that the group is engaged again in the same work. Throughout the years, the club continued as a social organization being joined by daughters and daughters-in-law of the original members.

The delicious chicken dinner was served by women of the Service society at a table beautifully decorated in a patriotic red, white and blue color theme. A large anniversary cake centered the table, the gift of Mrs. Myrtle Moon. Nineteen members; one new member, Mrs. Clifford Grandey; and guests, Mrs. Charles McKim, Susan McKim and Neal McKim participated, as did two former members, Mrs. Milton Bickett, New Castle and Mrs. Andrew Cole, Rochester.

Mrs. Samuel Battersby offered the invocation and a toast was presented by Mrs. Frank Blaine. Resolutions for the club were presented by Mrs. Clara Cunningham and Mrs. Blaine led group singing with music being provided by Mrs. Frank Potter.

Mingled with the gladness was sadness as members paused to pay tribute to members who have crossed the horizon. The memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Myrtle Moon for Mrs. Alec Anderson, Mrs. George Nagel, Mrs. William Cole, who were charter members; Mrs. Lillian Hoover, Mrs. Anna Denniston and Mrs. Anna Zimmerman.

A fourth generation representative, Samuel Battersby, Jr., great-grandson of Mrs. George Nagel was introduced.

Remarks were given by the first president, Mrs. John Stroehecker and the present president, Mrs. Samuel Battersby, and Mrs. Bickett, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Travis. Air Fighters Have Many Thrills In Plane Battles

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WITH UNITED NATIONS FORCES IN NORTHERN AUSTRALIA, March 19.—All pilots apparently are fatalists. Their calm acceptance of whatever fate offers is amazing.

One of them drops in from a combat mission and joins his pals. Asked whether he "got anything," his answer may be:

"Two Nips."

(Everybody over here calls the Japs Nips.)

Then he describes what happened. If he is describing an air combat, the others interrupt with technical questions.

They want to know if the Nips "got on his tail" or whether they went ahead and rolled, coming back head on. They also asked the pilot whether he "made a run for it," or "how many passes did he make," and so forth.

Thrilled By Stories

I always sit enthralled and thrilled to the finger tips at the stories these young dare-devils tell.

All the talks eventually wind up in friendly arguments between flat bombers and dive bombers, each claiming superior effectiveness, while the pursuit men kid both.

"What would you birds do without us?" they want to know.

The answer is invariably chorused:

"We did all right at this place or that place without you guys."

The pursuit airmen fly alone and can fire all six guns at once. The dive bombers have one gunner aboard. The big flat bombers have a crew of seven beside the pilot.

Last night one bombardier said: "Paint the inside of a rain barrel white and I'll drop an egg in it for you from 25,000 feet."

The others later told me he could do just that.

Nevertheless the dive bombers are more effective at a moving target like a battleship, because no matter where a ship turns it can't elude the sight of a dive bomber, which follows every turn.

On the other hand, a flat bomber may miss a moving target because it takes time for a bomb to fall that distance.

Tells Of Recent Raid

Last night one slender, dark-haired lad told me about his recent raid on Nipponese shipping in a narrow strait where five of his pals and himself got two enemy cruisers, two loaded transports and one destoryer in only two days.

"We left on our mission at 10 a. m., found the Japanese fleet and attacked immediately," he said.

"I picked on a heavy cruiser as my meat and dove at a 70-degree angle from 13,000 feet. The ship zig-zagged furiously but I kept him in my sights by turning with him.

"I came out of the dive at 1,500 feet and let him have it. My bomb hit his forward deck, blowing his bow to hell.

"His ack-ack guns were bursting all around me and my gunner was pumping away at four Jap Zeros on my tail blasting at me. He got one of the planes which went down flaming.

"I ducked and got away but my hydraulic pressure went haywire and I was forced to land in the surf on the bay. I got a deep cut in the forehead in landing, requiring these 16 stitches, but the gunner and I climbed out and swam in.

"We scrammed inland at top speed, got a lift in a truck, and here I am."

I asked him if he ever felt any fear when seeing that bunch of Japanese planes diving on him.

"I didn't have much time to feel any emotions," he replied, "I was too busy thinking about the job in hand.

"The ability to fly is only a small part of this job," he added. "We must think all the time, and try to outguess and outmaneuver the Nips.

"If you make one mistake—it's your finish," he said.

CREDIT FATHER HUBBARD
(International News Service)

SANTA CLARA, Calif.—Father Hubbard of Santa Clara University may be credited with doing his part for national defense by presenting to the government the largest collection of photographs of Alaska ever made. His treks into the northland netted the government a million and a half feet of motion pictures and thousands of still photographs now being assembled in an unnamed laboratory for Army use.

Gross receipts for admissions to motion picture theaters in Canada for the current year are well in excess of those for corresponding 1941 months, the Department of Commerce reports.

AROUND CITY HALL

Director of public improvements, James Gibson, announced recently that when conditions become suitable he will hose down streets. He also proposes to use a sweeper nightly in some paved section of the city . . . With new tires beyond the possibility for non-essential cars and retreading prohibited, Cascade Park has a chance to do a big comeback this season . . . Now is the time for the paging of local industries to hold their annual outing here, instead of elsewhere. The park has a good pool, good dance pavilion and some "rides" for children . . . Street car rails are to be removed on or before August 31. No doubt they will be converted into metal "messages" for Tokio and Berlin.

Harold Wood, inspector of signs, is not saying much but according to reports he is making inspections with the result that some signs which do no conform with the city law will be made to conform . . . Now is the time when sidewalk inspections should be made. The sidewalk building project, which has been in effect for two years, has proved one of the best the city launched . . . Removal of the State street north embankment is yet underway, likewise the Big Run flood alleviation plan . . . Mayor Charles B. Mayne has become more strict on parking meter violations. Very few violators escape a fine in traffic court . . . Benches or chairs in the second floor corridor of city hall would be acceptable to persons who must wait to see city officials.

EYES need Home Defense!

MENTION DEFENSE—and you think of tanks, planes, and destroyers.

But there is another kind of protection that is needed right in your own home. Your eyes—and those of your family—must be guarded against strain and overwork that comes when you use the wrong kind of light.

Young eyes, especially, need light that is glare-free, shadowless, easy on the eyes. It makes studying and reading easier and eliminates the eyestrain that often causes permanent impairment of vision.

Why not start your Defense Program right at home? Give your family the protection of good lighting in every room of your house.

YOUR contribution to the war effort on the allied front is the purchase of Defense Bonds and Defense Stamps . . . Buy all you can! Buy more than "you can" . . . Your country needs YOU to help win the Victory for everyone of us.

Home Defense Is Every Woman's Job

Electricity can play a big part on this job if every woman will put it to work wherever she can. For instance—it's health-saving on refrigerating and cooking . . . it's vitamin-preserving!

For all sorts of cleaning jobs—in the laundry, dish-washing, water heating, sweeping, electricity is the ideal servant—dependable, efficient and brim-full of energy.

It's on those little tasks that take so much of your time that you most appreciate electricity's help . . . like mixing cakes, mashing potatoes while you get the rest of the meal ready for serving—or making toast and coffee automatically in the mornings! and for grilling sandwiches for a quick, tasty lunch or midnight snacks. . . . You sure do appreciate your electric clock these busy days, too! It keeps you on time for all your civilian defense committee meetings!

Are You Moving?
So that you will not be inconvenienced by delay, please notify us well in advance of electric service connections you desire. In view of war conservation "musts," we are arranging our schedules of calls for service to reduce our automobile use. Thanks for your cooperation!

Raises Potatoes And Then Peels Them In Army

SHEPPARD FIELD, Tex.—Humphrey L. Jones, an army private from North Dakota, derives no chuckles from cartoons of the rookie on "KP" duty peeling mountains of potatoes.

Jones, before joining the army, raised 150 acres of potatoes. He dug them, sorted, resorted and sacked them, and loaded them for shipment. He didn't care if he never saw another potato.

Then came the army. You guessed it. He was assigned to "KP"—and to the potato bin. To make matters a good deal more excrutiating, the full sacks of potatoes were the same as those he had labored over only a few months previously.

More "Beacons of Safety" Needed!

No one knows whether the bombers will come. All we know is that we are dealing with treacherous enemies who will stop at nothing to gain their ends. Your home—your life—may depend on how well we are prepared to guard against these "raiders of the sky." Many more of the anti-aircraft searchlights shown above are needed and needed fast. We need these huge "beacons of safety" to protect our homes, our families, our American way of life. When you buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, you help your Government to buy another vital part of these costly but essential weapons of protection. Start buying now and keep it up regularly—every week! Bonds cost as little as $18.75, Stamps as little as 10¢.

City League To Meet On Friday

The managers and officials of the City Baseball league will have a meeting on Friday night at 8:30 o'clock at the St. Joseph hall for the purpose of talking over the possibilities of a 1942 league.

Many of the teams have lost men to the armed forces and may find it difficult to get a 1942 team on the field. However, the matter will be discussed Friday night and whether or not a city league is to be staged this year will be determined.

It may be that the league will be reduced to six teams instead of eight as heretofore.

Pastor And Bobo Fight Mentioned

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—The Rooney-McGinley fight promotion headquarters was ready today to lay $20,000 on the line for Bob Pastor if the New York heavyweight would agree to meet Harry Bobo in an outdoor Pittsburgh bout in late May or early June.

James J. Johnston, Pastor's manager, has had the matter under consideration for three weeks, it was reported, but is delaying a decision until he learns what Pastor's chances are for another meeting with Champion Joe Louis.

FAIR OR FOUL
By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 19.—In about nine days Joe Louis will make the second of his gracious and unselfish contributions to the war effort, while in the meantime preparing himself for what seemingly must be one of the longest and toughest fights in history. Whatever happens on the 27th between him and Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden is of so little importance against the backdrop of cannonading and bombing and death and destruction that this will be one of the least important of all heavyweight championship defenses, yet one of the most important.

For the first time a soldier is risking the heavyweight crown. For the second time the heavyweight champion is gambling that title against absolutely nothing. Quite permanently Louis is tossing another rose on the grave of Abe Lincoln, in the words of Jimmy Walker.

They were talking about Louis and his career and his present and future around the 20th Century Sporting Club today. The hard-bitten gentlemen who make their living out of the punches thrown and absorbed by others were recalling anecdotes and highlights of Louis' career and you got the notion that the Negro heavyweight prize-fighter is the outstanding figure in sports today without any studied program to bring him to this pinnacle that actually makes him stand as a symbol.

Hope Louis Wins

Usually there isn't much sentiment attached to a fight. One guy wins the other loses and they go their separate ways again, with the cheers for the winner and little mourning for the guy who came in second. This won't be so in the forthcoming battle between Louis and Simon.

I daresay that aside from Simon himself, his manager, James Joy Johnston, and their nearest of kin there aren't a half dozen people in the world sincerely hopeful that the challenger lifts the crown this time. In the boxing racket they are behind Louis—they want him to leave that ring with the title he will take in there with him because he personally is the kind of a man and champion that the game can use and, morever, is doing just a little more for his country than his country has asked.

The army and what it means hasn't affected him in the least. He has taken that in stride just as he has everything else that has come his way, whereas he might have been changed as others have been when they shoulder a pack and prepare for a journey to no one knows where.

Done Swell Job

He has done his job without fanfare, without popping off and without ever by word or deed attracting the slightest publicity to himself beyond the natural hulabaloo that must accompany a heavyweight champion's entry into the service. And I am not saying he is to be lauded for this any more than any other soldier, who has shouldered his pack and stood ready to go wherever needed.

It just happens that Louis is in position to capitalize on his role as a soldier, but hasn't and won't. He isn't saying or doing the wrong thing at any time.

They were talking around the 20th Century about his ability to do so many things so well, although he started out in a cotton patch, worked his way into an automobile factory, then went on to a fortune and to international fame.

He seems about to soldier as well as he can fight in the ring, and he has proved that in his own terse, unlettered, sometimes ungrammatical way he can speak from a platform.

Can Steal Show

They were commenting around the 20th Century on Louis being able to sit among notables from everywhere, and consistently steal the show when he had to get up and talk—steal it away from Jimmy Walker and others with an obvious sincerity that made more learned speakers applaud him. And he never says much—just a few words, which may come in reply to some remark, such as:

"I ain't fighting for nothing I'm fighting for my country."

He is giving away his purse again against Simon, and may even blow the title. What's more, he may not fight again for a long, long time.

But for whatever it is worth to him he ought to know that the gents who travel cauliflower row and hangout in the 20th Century think they will never see the likes of him again on the heavyweight throne.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Longest baseball game here was not the I. A. A.-Brier Hill, Youngstown, 18-inning affair, according to "Jewie" Coen, ex-hurler and manager. After reading the comment in this column Wednesday in which it was stated that the I. A. A. and Reick teams had gone 16 frames and the Brier Hill-I. A. A. clash 18 innings, Coen said the longest setto was between Massillon playing at New Castle and Akron in the O. & P. league. "The game went 21 innigs and Akron won five to four," said "Jewie." Coen said that Ketchum started in the box for New Castle. Coen pitched the last 14 innings. He recalled that Bosco, third baseman for Akron, knocked out the umpire and the gendarmes hauled Bosco off to jail. The game was played about 14 years ago at Centennial field.

Jeff Cravath, former coaching aid and coach at Southern California, and mentor at San Francisco U. for the past year, has been signed as head grid coach at the University of Southern California . . . W. G. Killinger, coach of West Chester Teachers, will enter the naval reserve.

Frank Gulfo of Youngstown knocked over 616 maples for Wednesday's best score in the singles in the ABC at Columbus. Herman Assmus and Lowell Briston of Worthington, Conn., collected the high doubles score of 1,136 . . . Thiel, undefeated in football last season, will meet Westminster at New Willmington, October 24, this year.

Clint White, fish warden for Lawrence and Mercer counties yesterday received a consignment of trout for distribution in Mercer County streams, according to Deputy Dick Roberts. The fish was stocked. No trout has yet been received for Lawrence County streams. Streams are high in Lawrence County.

St. Vitus Has Great Record

St. Vitus basketball team champions of Class AA in the New Castle Church League last year, have one of the most enviable records of any basketball team that ever played in New Castle, winning 54 games and losing six in two years of competition.

The St. Vitus team made it victory number 27 last night by defeating St. Mary's. The St. Mary's team has never defeated St. Vitus in basketball, since the church league was organized and since both teams have been in the league.

In 1941 the St. Vitus team won 27 and lost none, and now have a record of 27 and 6 this year. St. Vitus holds a win over the Old Furnace team that wants to play the Polish Falcons for the city championship. The score was 26 to 22. The St. Vitus team also has defeated the Gersons.

Nickie Gennock, Louie Santangelo and Freddy Marcella, former St. Vitus stars, are now in the service, and stationed as follows: Gennock, Training Station, Company B, Curtis Bay, Maryland, in the Marine Corps. Santangelo is stationed at Base Training Camp, Wheeler, Georgia. Freddy Marcella is reported uninjured and doing well as a soldier in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women Are Needed For Inspection Work

Hundreds of women are needed by the War Department for inspection work, the local office of the U. S. Civil Service Commission announced here today. No previous experience is necessary for these positions as female trainees.

Women who want to help MacArthur's men by inspecting ordnance materials should get applications immediately from the Civil Service secretary in the New Castle postoffice.

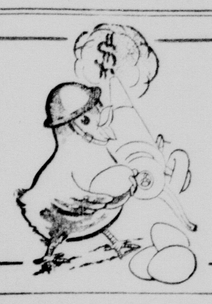

Any two people can be happy together if they are pals, but a ceremony can't make pals of natural antagonists.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

The following song was written and sung for Pennsylvania Day which was last Tuesday . . . at St. Cloud Florida. All those people from good old Pennsylvania who are eating up the sun were present, and a good many from New Castle are there too . . . so here is the song they sung as written by Mary E. Henry . . . Tune, "Swannee River":

Here flows the crystal Allegheny
Deep valley through
Broad runs the noble Susquehanna
Down to the ocean blue
Blue Mountains rise in the lofty grandeur
Treasure filled stores,
And mighty forests sing together
As the loud tempest roars.

Chorus:
Pennsylvania, Keystone State
The state we love so well
Now in the bright and sunny southland
We of the wonders tell.

Great are thy far flung cities
Stern iron men
Wild fowl and deer find refuge
In the deep forest glen
Here wrought out great forefathers
To build a nation strong
Here Nevin, Cadman, Gaul and Foster
Poured out their wreath of song.

Even though we hope that it never happens here we must all be ready for an air raid . . . if we all know what to do when the time should come, don't you think more of us would live to tell the story. Those who study first aid in times of peace, study things that they hope they will never need to use . . . and in ordinary times they never need their skill . . . but when they do, they are ready.

Stock Market Drifts Lower

Trend Is Irregular—Trading During Day Is Reported Dull

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 19—The stock market drifted irregularly lower today in a continuation of yesterday's trend. Trading was very dull.

Some blue chips were weak, particularly chemicals. Dow Chemical broke 2 points to sell under 100, a new low. Allied Chemical lost a point. Eastman Kodak was off almost a point.

American Tobacco B dropped nearly a point and American Telephone and Western Union were fractionally lower.

Motors displayed a firm tone, with General Motors slightly higher. Atchison was up in a mixed market for rails, and U. S. Steel held a small gain as Bethlehem eased.

Defaulted rails were active in the bond market. Small changes ruled in commodities, with the undertone easier.

In New Commands

Maj. Gen. Brett

Rear Admiral Andrews

Following news of the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to supreme command of Allied forces in the Australian area is announcement of the appointment of Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, U. S. A., top picture, as commander of United Nations' combined air forces in the western Pacific area. Simultaneously, came announcement of Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, lower photo, to the newly-created post of commander of the eastern U. S. frontier.

The one certain short-cut to ruin is the proposed censorship that would conceal the blunders of officials.

General MacArthur's Dramatic Transfer Is "Best News For Allies"

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGE
Written Especially for International News Service

"The best news of the war thus far," is the characterization universally applied in capitals of United Nations to General MacArthur's dramatic airplane journey through Japanese lines from the Philippines to Australia and his assumption of command of democratic forces in the southwest Pacific.

Americans and Britons thrill to a man at dispatches telling of the safe arrival of the hero of Bataan at the end of his long and hazardous trip. From London and New York comes news that securities on the stock exchanges of those two capitals of finance have recorded sustained rises in price.

Popular delight in Australia rises to the proportions almost of a public celebration. In Chungking, Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek and his advisors express great elation and the hope that the supreme ability of the newly-arrived commander in the critical Australian theater of war may presage the beginning of a definite turn of the tide against Japanese aggression.

Master Stroke

Unquestionably President Roosevelt has performed a master stroke in the psychology of war by transferring General MacArthur to his new command. For reasons that every soldier will understand, the general was loath to leave his embattled troops in the Philippines. But the morale effect alone of his arrival in Australia will be worth half a dozen divisions to the United Nations' cause.

Since the beginning of the Japanese campaign in the south Pacific, General MacArthur has captured the imagination of the anti-Axis world to an extent unequalled in the annals of the present world struggle. It was the long-held opinion of most military authorities that the Philippines could not be held by United States forces for more than a month.

Strategic Position

Luzon, together with Britain's Hong Kong, was recognized as one of the strategic positions the Mikado's soldiers must take quickly if they were to have safe transportation through vital China seas. Immediately after the stab in the back attack on Hawaii, Nipponese bombers and assault divisions began large scale attacks on MacArthur's men.

That was three months and 11 days ago, but the American-Filipino forces on Bataan and Corregidor still hold out and swap blow for blow with their assailants. Meantime, Hong Kong, the vastly stronger Singapore, and the distant Dutch East Indies have fallen to the foe.

Military men all over the world recognize MacArthur's transfer of his small defensive forces to the Bataan peninsula as a stroke of genius. Here their rear and much of their flanks were covered by the fire of the mighty guns of the Corregidor fortifications. The enemy could approach them only over a narrow front, which minimized the value of his overpowering numbers.

Once the close siege began, the American defense was conducted according to the best tactical methods of modern war. There was no static holding of lines, but a succession of dynamic thrusts in which Japanese shock troops and infiltration units met more than their match.

Legends Develop

Around MacArthur himself, a crop of legends has grown up, such as have marked successful leaders in every war. Most of these are probably untrue, but they have their effect. One of these is that he personally directed his flyers in patching up their battered planes with baling wire and insulating tape before they took off to smash a fleet of Japanese transports.

Another, popular in London, is that he wears his gold-laced general's cap even in battle, and puts on his full-dress uniform for dinner whenever a pause in operations renders it possible. Best of all is the west coast story that after a Japanese submarine shelled California, MacArthur wired the governor of that state: "Hold out for thirty days and I'll send you reinforcements."

Magnificent as has been the effect on United Nations morale of MacArthur's transfer, it is to be hoped that it does not cause ultimate disappointment by arousing hopes that cannot soon be fulfilled. Already talk is widespread of a speedy offensive from Australia against Japanese positions in the Indies.

Unfortunately, it seems that much time must elapse before this is possible. Australia is a vast subcontinent, bigger than the United States and poorly organized for war. Men must be trained, supplies and reinforcements supplied. Even MacArthur cannot do this overnight.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

WARTIME AND THE STORY ABOUT COFFEE

Is there a coffee shortage? At present, no—and every effort is being made to assure a sufficient supply. But this is wartime—and supplies of coffee like those of any imported product may be temporarily curtailed by shipping problems. As America's largest coffee merchant we advise you to buy normally. Don't create a false shortage. As fresh coffee flavor is what you want, don't store coffee in any form. We will do everything possible to assure our customers a normal supply of really fresh A&P Coffee.

Will there be a change in coffee quality? America has shown its appreciation of the fine product the coffee industry has provided. Naturally we can speak only for A&P Coffee, in which there will no change from the high quality that has always marked these fine blends. A&P Coffee will continue to represent the pick of South American plantations . . . delivered to A&P Stores in the flavor-sealed bean . . . Custom Ground when you buy.

Will coffee prices soar? No. The Office of Price Administration of the U. S. Government has established for your protection, top prices for green coffee. This has been done to prevent further rises. Should an increase in the price of roasted coffee occur, it will be due to advances in war risk insurance rates, carrying charges, and other costs. Needless to say, A&P's pre-war policy of asking a very small profit for its coffee—will continue. So—Join the thousands who enjoy A&P Coffee and save up to 10c a lb.

WHY YOUR COFFEE SHOULD BE CUSTOM GROUND

Different types of coffeepots bring hot water into contact with ground coffee for different lengths of time. So, it is necessary to have your coffee Custom Ground for your particular type of coffee maker. Remember it takes only 11 seconds, taste the difference!

WOULD REDUCE AUTO SPEED IN STATE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 19.—An administration bill to reduce the Pennsylvania limit on highway speed from 50 to 40 miles, was introduced in the senate Wednesday by Sen. Thomas B. Wilson (R) Mckean county. President Roosevelt has asked that motorists drive no faster than 40 miles an hour to conserve tires and gasoline.

Have Roles In Senior Play

Betty Jean Kemp — Miriam Thomas — Joan Wadlinger — Robert O'Neill

Hand-picked in the first place and moving toward perfection through enthusiastic rehearsals, the cast of "American Passport" is ready for the public performance on Friday evening.

Among the June graduates who make up the cast of this their class play, Betty Jame Kemp plays Sybil. A staunch American, young, attractive and pleasantly in love, Sybil figures as a sort of unofficial Miss Columbia in contrast to her youthful associates with a distinct radical stripe. "Jean" is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Russell Kemp of Beckford street.

"Bob" O'Neill is a stalwart young American, sure of himself and sure of his principles. He is the male counterpart of Sybil in his sound Americanism, but he is in love with one of the radicals of the cast. "Bob" is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. O'Neill of Winslow avenue.

Miriam Thomas has the well-worn but never worn-out character of the young sister. She belongs to the family whose fads, fancies and fracases make up the fabric of the plot. As Louella, Miriam will get a good hand from her audience. Miriam Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilfrid Thomas of Sumner avenue.

Joan Wadlinger plays the role of Mrs. Schwartz, the neighbor who thinks that no children were ever so badly brought up as those who live next door to her. Since Mrs. Schwartz is always swept onto the stage by a great wave of righteous indignation over some fresh incident, her successive appearances serve the cause of dramatic suspense. Her wrathful eloquence over the misdeeds of her neighbors' children is invariably unintentionally funny. Joan is the daughter of Major and Mrs. Guy J. Wadlinger.

Highway Work To Be Resumed Soon

HARRISBURG, March 19—The coming of favorable weather in the next few weeks will witness a resumption of road construction on a fairly active scale in Pennsylvania, according to the Department of Highways.

Despite the war with its resulting shortage of critical materials there are approximately 265 miles of new and modern highway under contract on which work will be resumed this spring.

Virtually all this mileage is represented in contracts let last year but which could not be completed in the 1941 construction season. In many cases contractors were able during the winter to continue with grading operations so that the return of warmer weather will permit them to place the pavement.

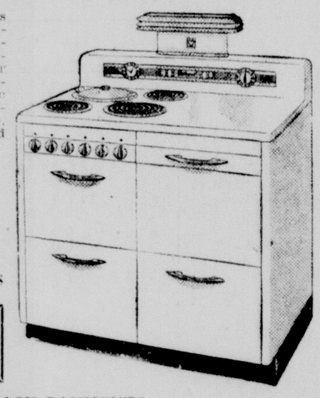

Books of the Department show a contract obligation of approximately $23,430,00 as of March 1. There were 277 active contracts in force at the beginning of the month.

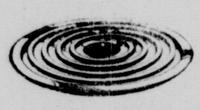

Work on many projects awarded last season, especially on bridges, has been delayed because of the shortage in materials mostly steel. Engineers of the Department expect that this will be overcome and the materials received so that the jobs can be completed this season. Many of the projects on which delays have resulted are located on the strategic network of highways.

Employment Office Employes Aiding Defense Program

Employes of the New Castle office of the United States Employment Service are participating wholeheartedly in the Agency's special plan for the purchase of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps, according to an announcement today by John Velker, acting manager of the local office.

"Men and women employed in the offices of the United States Employment Service are already doing a job vital to the Nation's war effort, in supplying the workers needed on our farms and in our factories," Mr. Velker said. "They are now indicating both their patriotic feeling and their appreciation of a sound investment by their enthusiastic response to the Defense Savings Plan."

Throughout Pennsylvania, employes of the United States Employment Service have already purchased more than $8,000 worth of the Treasury's Defense Saving securities, Mr. Velker pointed out. Of this amount, approximately $4,000 worth has been purchased through the voluntary Defense Savings purchase plan of the Employment Service, which nas been in operation in Pennsylvania for only a little more than a month. Approximately 1600 employes of the United States Employment Service for Pennsylvania have also pledged themselves to purchase at least $4,000 worth of Defense bonds and stamps each payroll period hereafter.
